

PAL Multiple-Intelligences (M.I.) Education

Formal schools put heavy emphasis on the development of logical intelligence and linguistic intelligence (mainly reading and writing). PAL believes education should cover more than basic language skills, mathematics and academic knowledge. Children's vision need to be cast wide in their early years to prepare them for the ever-changing and competitive environment. We want to steer them towards the right direction with good inter-personal skills and tasks management, fostering a positive attitude that leads them to a successful and abundant life.

As passionate educators and dedicated professionals, we at PAL are very concerned about our students' whole-person development, that is, we aspire to develop both the intellectual and emotional aspect of our students. During this learning path, they can attain what our government has identified as the ABC: Awareness, Broadening, and Critical Thinking.

At PAL, team work and inquiry-based learning are emphasized. In addition to our PAL creed of helping students to attain good English language skills, we aim to work alongside our students in the quest of attaining multiple intelligences. Courses under our PAL M.I. Education are designed to be emotionally fulfilling, of which students will take home from their classes not only their reports, but a sense of achievement. While we circumvent a balanced and satisfying learning atmosphere, children take on a positive attitude towards their daily challenges. It is this receptive state of mind that is directly associated to a healthy personality development, especially in our early years, a critical stage in which positive learning attitude will provide a life long asset for the many years to come.
